WILLIAM A. DEXTER
Director of Guidance

WITH GRATITUDE AND APPRECIATION, we the Class of 1960, acknowledge the willing aid and understanding guidance of William A. Dexter.

"All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players." This is an apt phrase for the theme of the 1960 Yearbook, quoted from the works of a great scholar. Players you will be on the stage of life. Some of you will take the leading parts. Many of you will be the technicians behind the scenes who, by your technology and knowledge of sound and lighting effects, will add realism to the performance. There will be some of you who, by your talent and genius, will create the play, produce and direct the production. Others will have a small bit to play and possibly will not be noticed by the audience, nor make headlines.

For the past twelve years you have been rehearsing your parts and improving your skills, but for most of you the opening night and even the dress rehearsal lie four years or more beyond. The final days of rehearsal will be more arduous than the first, but if you have learned your parts well, yours will be the satisfaction of a "smash hit" and a very successful season. To you who will soon become players on the great world's stage, I offer the words of James Russell Lowell's "Inspiration for Living":

"Life is a leaf of paper white
Whereon each one of us may write
His word or two, and then comes night;

Greatly begin! Tho' thou hast time
But for a line, be that sublime!
Not failure, but low aim, is crime."

WILLIAM A. DEXTER

Foreword

The roles a man can play in his time are as varied as his abilities and determination. Only by the most consistent and conscientious efforts will one's entire talents be realized. The past years have been a trying rehearsal, preparing us for our debut on the stage of life. Now, for us, the rehearsal has ended and "All the world's a stage."

MR. HERRSCHAFT, OUR SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, is now retiring after many years of devoted service. His plans and decisions have always been guided by his sincere interest in education and young people.

HOWARD G. HERRSCHAFT

Superintendent of Schools

"All the world's a stage." Here is a theme for your year book that challenges the imagination! Each of us has thoughts peculiarly ours and, in this regard, I am no exception. May I suggest that, as you read these words of mine and other material in this publication, you consider more than one aspect of your chosen theme.

While you consider your theme as developed by your editorial staff and by the members of the Administration to whom you have granted the privilege of adding their contributions, may I ask you to pause long enough to reflect that if you mistakenly let this theme lead you to consider life only as a play to be acted, you will do yourselves an injustice.

How true are many of the implications of this idea! We appear but briefly in the continuing flow of human activity. At times our individual contributions seem so unimportant that we can easily consider ourselves cast in minor roles. This judgment lends emphasis to the point that I am trying to make: One is cast in a part in this "play" and only within well defined limits can one make much of a contribution.

How much more does life hold? It is important to realize that while we are not necessarily wholly subject to the whims of forces outside of our control, we may, to a large degree, determine by ambition and wisdom what we may become.

Insofar as we are self-determinant does life have meaning for us. The discontent so frequently seen among us probably is due to the fact that we have failed to assume our natural place in human activity that can in a real sense be fully satisfying to us.

May I make a special comment to the members of the class of 1960? You, and I, too, will be severing our connection with this Longmeadow School Department at about the same time. I trust that, as you leave, you will have many fond memories as I shall have. I trust that all of us many continue to look back at the work we have done here with satisfaction. If, through my efforts to do my work well, I have helped you to achieve richer and fuller lives, I shall be content. May God's rich blessing go with you as you go your individual ways.

You will be portraying yourself as you face audiences throughout life from your stage. You will be both author and actor of the various roles you will be playing. It will be your opportunity and your responsibility to determine your parts and to act them. These are precious rights made possible for you by those who fought and died to establish and pass them on to you. They are yours to enjoy, but yours also to preserve and strengthen for those who are coming after you.

Who will you be and how will you portray yourself as your life unfolds and you go from scene to scene? No better guide has been offered to youth with your cultural background than that contained in Shakespeare's famous lines: "This above all, to thine own self be true, and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

QUENTIN REYNOLDS
Chairman—Longmeadow School Committee

There is an excitement and a challenge in the realization that we as individuals have a wide range of personal freedom in selecting the roles we will play in life. However, Robert Frost's "The Road Not Taken" suggests to some of us the weight of responsibility which attends our choosing one course of action over others. Indeed it appears that as night follows day responsibility for our choices follows our freedom to choose.

To grant this sobering premise immediately raises the question as to how we can select more wisely the roles we will play. Must we conclude only that our reactions at a given time will depend upon the situation and that "When in Rome, we will do as the Romans do"? Of course not! But yet, how do we make better decisions? To fail to choose is itself a type of choice, a decision to do nothing. This requires no courage, no faith.

There are three fundamental steps in selecting our behavior roles more intelligently. The first is to secure and evaluate fairly the facts in a given case. It is often more difficult to face the facts than to secure them. The second step is to formulate the reasonable alternative courses of action suggested by the facts. To overlook a meaningful solution to a problem can be as detrimental in decision making as to overlook factual data. The last step is to try to predict the consequences of each alternative role.

Two basic questions come to mind as we weigh alternative courses of action. What effect will our behavior have on persons around us, our associates, our friends, our loved ones? What will be the consequences of the action upon us as persons; will our action make us wiser, more tolerant, more loyal, i.e., better human beings? Our answers to these questions will influence greatly our final decision.

W. HENRY CONE
Assistant Superintendent of Schools

Your twelve-year-long rehearsal is over. Your producers, directors and technical advisors have coached you through arduous months of learning and playing. You have missed cues, fluffed lines, encountered interruptions but you have progressed steadily. All you have been taught during rehearsals is now behind you. Each one of you can play the role he chooses, and each role, though possibly not a leading part, can be important.

In this materialistic age, the props and settings too often seem to dominate the individual dignity of players on the stage — a lavish scene may get more plaudits than a well-played part. Sometimes we tend to judge not by accomplishment and character but by properties.

The script is yours to write, and you are audience as well as players. If you can relegate the props to minor places, put emphasis on character and individual worth, give credits for knowledge, skill, and service to the world, keep your respect for self and man, and for God, Who is your Final Critic, you will have mastered, not the art of acting, but the greater art of living.

Play the part first! Trim the stage last.

HUGH O. MACFARLANE
Principal

You are now ready to be cast in another "act" in the greatest play of all — life. As you venture forth in this new role, remember that kindness and cheerfulness will add color, vitality and significance to your part. Play this part, at all times, with the Golden Rule uppermost in mind. Each individual has a job to do in this great "play." Do it in a friendly, cooperative spirit which in turn will add meaning and happiness to your life as well as to the lives of those around you. — However, do not be afraid to think, to create, and to believe for yourself. God meant for you to be an individual with your own individual characteristics. Don't be ashamed of them. Continue to struggle. Thomas Paine once wrote "What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly; it is dearness only that gives everything its value." If you attain one goal, strive for a more worthwhile one. Life need never be commonplace and routine; it's all in the attitude and point of view that one takes.

English

MISS NANCY EATON

The object of the English Department is to improve and develop the student's ability in verbal expression. Graded vocabulary lists and grammar units provide a general background in mechanics of expression. Perceptive and sensitive reading is stressed in an introduction to cultural relationships. To achieve this, a background in general literature is provided for freshmen followed the next two years by specific study of American and English literature. In the senior year, world literature is surveyed with emphasis in the advanced classes on the literary works of ancient civilizations.

History

MR. STANLEY URSPRUNG

A comprehensive knowledge of past events is essential to an understanding of the present world situation. The history program at Longmeadow High School affords the student an opportunity to study both past and present civilizations of the world. In the freshman year, the department offers semester courses: government, the first, is concerned with political theory and its practical applications; geography, the second, with world's natural features and their effect on economics. A world civilization survey from the Stone Age through World War II is presented to sophomores, followed the next year by specific study of the political, economic, and social aspects of our country. As a senior, the student can relate his interpretation of the past to his understanding of the present either in the subjects of contemporary civilization or modern problems.

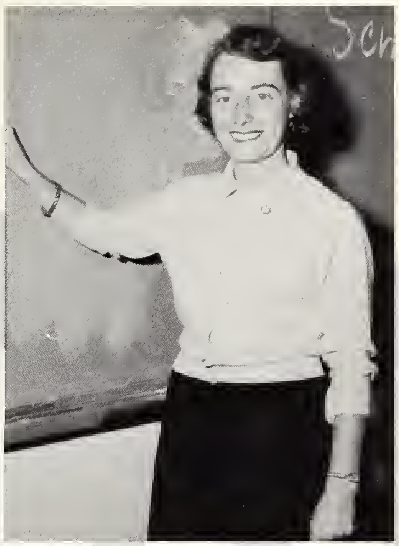
Foreign Languages



MISS ONAITA MacINTYRE

The present age offers a challenge to mankind unparalleled throughout history. Because of ease and swiftness of the transportation in this era, the world's vast expanses are constantly shrinking and its peoples are being drawn together. It is, therefore, imperative that common understanding among nations and their citizens be attained. To this end, widespread linguistic skill is an important advance.

Because Longmeadow High School is aware of this need, its curriculum offers the student a sound program in foreign languages. Basic two-year or more comprehensive three- and four-year courses are provided in Latin and French by instructors who are specialists in their fields. Achievement in the knowledge of the language itself, as well as insight into culture, ideals, and aspirations of a foreign society are the dual purposes of these courses.

Mathematics

The MATHEMATICAL COURSES presented at Longmeadow High School are designed to build a solid background in a wide range of both theoretical and practical mathematics. The field of study includes algebra I and II, plane geometry, business mathematics, applied mathematics, and advanced mathematics. The last, Math IV, is a combination of trigonometry, solid geometry, analytical geometry, and an introduction to the calculus. The mathematical curriculum fulfills the requirements of many students of varying abilities and interests.

Sciences

The SCIENCE DEPARTMENT at Longmeadow High School offers courses for both fundamental and specific study, depending upon the individual interests of the student. The courses presented include: general science, a required freshman subject; biology, either college preparatory or applied; chemistry; and physics. In college preparatory biology as well as chemistry and physics, laboratory work is required. To provide for increasing enrollment in the laboratory sciences, two more classrooms for scientific experiment have been added within the new wing.

Physical Education

The PHYSICAL EDUCATION program is designed to develop coordinated skills, recreation, sportsmanship, and leadership in the high school student. The course attempts to guide individual growth, both emotional and social, as well as physical. These important factors of maturity are the reasons physical education is a required course. The subject includes participation in seasonal competitive sports, after which knowledge and skill tests are given. To measure strength development, annual physical fitness tests are administrated. With the assistance of the Boys and Girls Leaders' Club, the department also organizes an active program of intramural sports.

MISS DANCY KELSEY

MR. VLADIMIR DANKEVICH

Commercial Arts

COMMERCIAL SUBJECTS offer pupils training for direct participation in business as well as preparation for advanced work at business schools and colleges. The curriculum includes typewriting, in which the emphasis is placed on speed and accuracy, and stenography, the aim of which is the mastery of the shorthand theory in writing and reading. The basic principles, skills, and procedures of business are taught in bookkeeping and office practices. A background course, general business training, is concerned with the relationships that exist between personal and national welfare and business activities.

MRS. SARAH HOWE

The Arts

MISS LILLIAN ERICKSON

The INDUSTRIAL ARTS program, which includes the courses of mechanical drawing and personal use shop, deals with several types of exploratory shop work. A general knowledge and an appreciation of industry are stressed in addition to an introduction to the use of machines, tools, and measuring instruments. The courses emphasize basic electrical principles and the safe use of hand, machine, and precision power tools.

MR. JOHN ROSSITER

The aim of the ARTS AND CRAFTS courses is to aid the student to express himself more effectively through creative activity in the visual and plastic arts. The basic principles of color, shape, and design are taught first. After these are mastered, the program stresses the three major creative areas: crafts, commercial arts, and fine arts. Thus the student is given an opportunity to explore the many fields of art for a media of expression.

The function of the HOUSEHOLD ARTS department is to develop in girls the desire and ability to improve their personal poise and their surroundings. The program includes units in table settings, home furnishings, flower arrangements, and food preservation, preparation, and service. The girls are taught additional domestic skills in clothing selection and construction, grooming, modeling, home nursing, and child development. These many facets of personal planning are co-ordinated in the highlight of the year, the annual fashion show.

MR. WILFRED BURKLE

The MUSIC COURSES provide for the enjoyment of music through both listening and performing. The program includes song-fests and concerts for the entire student body, as well as Glee Club, Chorus, and "Lyrics" for selected vocal students. The instrumental groups are the band, orchestra, and dance band. Another important area in this field is the music appreciation and harmony course. Thus the department offers all students an opportunity to enjoy music through personal participation and analytic interpretation.

CLASS HISTRIONICS

Produced by: Longmeadow High School
Directed by: Miss MacIntyre, Mr. Pratt, and Mr. Climo
Time: The Late 1950's
Setting: The Town of Longmeadow

Lights — Camera — Action!

ACT I:

As the last few weeks of summer vacation flew by, we, the freshmen of 1956, ready to make our high school debut, experienced an acute case of stage fright. We entered LHS with shaking knees and confused wits, and our first efforts at adjustments drew unrehearsed laughter from the upperclassmen. Nevertheless, we soon became accustomed to the bright lights and the numerous activities of our new high school setting.

Behind the scenes, our newly elected officers, Carolyn Paige, the industrious president; Bob Nye, vice-president; Sue Thomas, secretary; and Joan Mohrman, treasurer, worked feverishly to get us organized.

In those days life was hectic! Aside from our academic studies, we attended mock presidential elections, a jazz assembly, and the school's first sock hop. Remember? Sport critics raved about our first football team's success in its opening performance. When we weren't cheering our teams, the freshmen boys and girls strongly supported intramurals.

Just as we were beginning to get settled, our routine was interrupted by a revolt in the lunchroom (with a participating cast of hundreds). Strange to say the subsequent lunches showed no marked improvement.

Tragedy struck with our first midyears, but somehow we managed to pull through. In another academic field, Doug Ellis distinguished himself by winning the Freshman Essay Contest. But All work and no play was not our motto. This was proven by the success (not financial) of our freshman dance — Mardi Gras — and our enthusiasm as slaves at the original Latin Banquet.

One of the highlights of that year was the presentation of Thornton Wilder's Our Town, in which our classmates Bill Adams, Joan Bloom, Mike Mazer, Bob Nye, and Steve Shatz all trod the boards. The June Awards Assembly finally arrived, recognizing others of us: Jim Page, who won a math prize, and Marcia Clark, who won an art award.

With a little less confusion and a bit more self-confidence, we pulled through, and thus ended a harassed, but happy year for the stage struck freshmen.

ACT II:

Without much prompting, we returned to school in the fall of 1957, eager to assume our new position as sophomores. We were no longer the lowly freshmen! You might say we became "understudies" to the upperclassmen. Anxious to join their league (the Ivy League, of course), we invaded LHS with buckles in the back of everything, Shetland sweaters, all shades of the rainbow, and really collegiate blacks and whites.

Our first duty was to stage class elections; Peter Strople became our new president, Bob Nye again assumed the vice-presidency, and Sue Thomas and Joan Mohrman returned to their positions as secretary and treasurer. Once more, our class dance, this year The Big Apple, failed to get a full house, but otherwise was very "fruitful."

In the limelight of boys' sports was Glen Snyder, who, as Daily News Star of the Week, supported the basketball team during a successful season. The girls shared the stage, featuring Terry McCormack's modern dance solo in Girls' Sport Night and Carolyn Paige's New England A.A.U. award for performance on the uneven parallel bars.

Our schedule was once more interrupted — this time by a melodramatic bomb scare. We found ourselves with an unexpected free Wednesday afternoon, but who can ever forget school the next Saturday? Our whole day was "kilt."

The Dramatic Club held the audience captive with its production of January Thaw, featuring our classmates Joan Bloom, Mike Mazer, and Steve Shatz. In the April Music Assembly, Bob Nye showed his talent in a solo at the piano.

When the curtain fell on our final awards assembly, honoring Steve Shatz and Mike Mazer with third prize in the Science Fair, we could hardly believe that another year had passed. But, with considerable rehearsal behind us, we were now ready to face the rigors of the junior year with confidence and enthusiasm.

On from the amateur theater to Broadway!

ACT III:

During the summer intermission, the stage crew for the new wing and gym worked feverishly to finish. Unfortunately, the curtain for the junior year rose before they put on the finishing touches. But the play must go on — so we worked in our concrete cells at S.T.P. with only nature's light.

These inconveniences soon became part of the scenery for this was the year of advanced courses! We'll never forget the endless hours of "outside reading," work, work and more work for Mr. Z., and Mr. Lopes' subtle (?) humor (?).

Now playing "supporting roles," we juniors chose "Mac" MacDonnell as president, Charlie Brown (more commonly known as "Little Rock" Strople) as V.P., and again those favorites at the polls, Sue Thomas, secretary, and Joan Mohrman, treasurer.

On the sports scene our football team went undefeated. Then with the advent of the winter months, we followed our teams to victory all over the state — to Amherst, where the basketball team reached the finals in the Small Schools Tournament; and to Boston, where the hockey team, after winning the Suburban Division, competed in the play-offs. As the boys gained victory after victory, the girls gained pound after pound in the absence of a gym teacher and program (Miss Kelsey to the rescue!).

This was a year of academic firsts. The Freshman Essay Contest took a curtain call in our junior year with Bruce Aldrich receiving top billing. Then, too, we juniors played a leading role in the establishment of the Honor Study Hall and the French and Latin Clubs. Looking ahead, several girls made use of the experimental Early Application Plan by applying to college in their junior year.

And a lunchroom revolt once more made its appearance! Innovations in the payment and disposal procedures met with dramatic protest as we found our pockets weighed down with pennies and quarters and our hands full of dirty dishes.

We weren't too busy, though, to make a comeback in the social world and "good old wishy-washy Charlie Brown" became the biggest box office attraction in our dance history. At last our profit wasn't just "Peanuts"!

Once again that great humorist (?), Mr. Lopes (who teaches English on the side) directed a smashing hit this year, The Matchmaker, with Joan Bloom in the title role and Mike Palmer playing opposite her. The supporting cast included such junior celebrities as Ginny Dow, Mike Mazer, Bill Krim, Bob Nye, and Dave DuBuisson.

Also on stage that year was our first Student Council Funday. Headlining the program were Bob MacDonnell, the madras-clad M.C.; Dick Murphy (The ALL-American Boy); and numerous, humorous skits by both students and faculty.

In May, we junior sophisticates took a trip to Holland for our Prom. Decorations by Leers (tons of tulips), and music by Ravosa made the evening a perfect one. The prom chairman, Dick Murphy (The ALL-American Boy) crowned Bob MacDonnell and Sue Thomas king and queen.

But we did have our serious moments which earned us distinction. Marcia Clark was a co-winner of the third prize in the Science Fair and Brian Doherty won both fourth prize and the Hampden Medical Award. Receiving book awards at the final assembly were Elliot Bloom, the Harvard award; Bob MacDonnell, the Dartmouth award; and Peter Strople, the Williams award. Joan Bloom was chosen as Governor's Aide, and Ginny Dow, Bill Krim, and Mike Mazer were selected to represent us at Girls' and Boys' State.

Ginny and Bob were again honored, this time as marshals of the Class of 1959 at graduation. Roused from the comfortable security of our junior year, we suddenly came to the frightening realization that this graduation was our dress rehearsal. We, too, would be marching down this same aisle in one short year.

ACT IV:

Seniors at last! As the curtain finally rose on our fourth act, we, the Class of 1960, assumed "leading roles" at LHS. From the start an affable Italian, Guido Zuffellato, stole the show during his short stay with the senior class at Longmeadow. Included in our audience now were three years of underclassmen plus living proof that size is inversely proportional to volume of noise (the seventh grade outcasts, of course).

An already experienced senior, Bill Cox, became our president; Mac, vice-president; and playing their perennial roles as secretary and treasurer were Sue Thomas and Joan Mohrman. In the Student Council Mac and Peter Strople (sound familiar?) became president and V.P. respectively. Under their leadership, the Student Council sponsored several foreign travel assemblies. The Debate-Discussion Club, too, turned theatrical as they presented their "Plan A" skit.

Leading stars in the fall sports spotlight were Pioneer Valley soccer players Skip Baird and Mike Palmer; and the co-captains of the football team, Dennie Robb and Bob MacDonnell. But even our tremendous team and school spirit failed to bring a happy ending to the "Classical tragedy." Senior girls also took title roles in sports as Barbara Chapin became captain of the Drill Team and Ginny Dow called for a peppy show of spirit with the cheerleaders. In addition, Carolyn Paige and Eline Dierauf kept up the Jet and White rivalry in their respective teams. Off to an excellent start, the winter sports starred many seniors. Among them were Dick Murphy (The ALL-American Boy) and Glen Snyder in basketball and Skip Baird in hockey.

Meanwhile "Zombie Jamboree," "Scotch and Soda," and "They're Rioting in Africa," all rang through the halls as the Kingston Trio became the mania of all the seniors and the "hungary intellectuals" at LHS. The seniors, their original backers, "were lucky enough to run into them down there" when the K Trio came to Springfield. Need we say more?

Now we "slipped into the relative security" of our senior routine. Although we were constantly confronted by the problem of college and applications, we managed to keep up with current obligations as well as future plans. High on the list of senior activities was the Honor Society headlining Elliot Bloom as president and Bob Summersgill, vice-president. Included in this group's repertoire were the new tutoring system, the annual alumni tea, and the lucrative, but omnipresent task of coat-checking.

As seniors we took the top hand in producing the "Playbill" of the high school world — our own Jet Jotter. Co-editors Andrea Leers and Ginny Dow worked on perfecting the form and quality of our recently printed newspaper. Joan Bloom, as assistant editor and general news editor; Bill Klempner, production manager and boys' sports editor; Dave DuBuisson, business manager; Bob Summersgill, special sections editor; Mike Palmer, feature editor; Jay Wiley, interview editor; Ricky Kimball, circulation manager; and Barbara Chapin, girls' sports editor; all put time and effort into making a "good show." As might be expected, the staff had its ups and downs, with the feature writers continually threatening to resign, everyone trying to make deadlines, and complaints from the sports section whose style was cramped by THE ROBINSON AD. But all in all, the Jet Jotter enjoyed a successful run at LHS.

But hard work was accompanied by our own divertissements as we discovered new comedians in the frequent class book meetings. The informal gatherings (co-sponsored by the yearbook and the newspaper) were infamous not only for producing the Class Will and Caricatures (half of which was censored) but also for serving as the school grapevine.

Then, too, through the combined efforts of the Masacksic and the Jet Jotter, an extension to the library was opened in the S.A. room for these strictly "U" people, much to Miss Baird's frustration.

The Masacksic, another exclusive senior feature, put many members of our class before the footlights. Directed by the ambitious and competent Steve Shatz, yearbook progress was off to an early start. Thanks to the able assistance of Carolyn Paige and her literary staff, Bill Adams and Ricky Kimball and their enormous business staff, Sally Neef's endless toil in the art room, Elliot Bloom's "clicking," and of course Barbara Chapin and Doug Ellis with "high pressure salesmanship," the 1960 Masacksic promised to be spectacular. Now, due to the yearbook deadlines, we must end our review of "Class Histrionics before this play is finished.

Looking back at our high career — our "stage-struck" freshman days, the trials of the sophomore "understudy" year, our "supporting roles" as juniors, and finally our senior "leads" — we see the progress that we've made. We have both benefited from a fine education and contributed precedents to the school. But we know the rehearsal does not end at graduation. We're all "hams" at heart, and for us, All the world's a Stage.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1960

We, the class of 1960, being of purged minds and heavenly bodies, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament and bequeath the following:

Chris Holland leaves his European address book to Bill Coes.
Linda Wright leaves the "wright" way.
Dick Murphy leaves his "All-American Boy" tee shirt to Aaron Kronenberg.
Sally Neef leaves Miss Erickson to Pablo Picasso.
Ed Zinn leaves his Junior Prom record (7:00) to be broken.
Sandy Albano leaves her "Thunderbaird" to Pat Andrews.
Bill Cox leaves maybe . . . . . and maybe not.
Sarah Shaw leaves her cash register to a calculating junior.
Barbara Chapin leaves to be a Marine drill sergeant.
Peter Strople leaves his bus service to Gary Gibson.
Steve Shatz gives the Masacksic back to the Indians.
Kendall Clark leaves the math department confused.
Betsy Shepherd leaves her Elvis Presley fan club membership to Peggy Craft.
Mike Mazer leaves his javelin to next year's slinger.
Andrea Leers leAAAAves.
Sarah Caswell leaves (rhmmm rhmmm) for Lime Rock.
Joan Bloom leaves the Dramatic Club . . . dramatically.
Mike Palmer leaves for Newton, daily.
Sam Rickless leaves his ties to Jim Chandler.
Andy Morace leaves a pair of rather large shoes to be filled.
Will Craft leaves his English notes to Dave Killeen.
In line with the theme of our yearbook, Bob MacDonnell leaves his cast to Alan Stewart.
We leave victory over Classical to the Juniors.
The Senior Class leaves — L.H.S. on the map, a multitude of Kingston Trio ticket stubs and worn-out records, Classical decorated, the expressions "nebbish," "esoteric," and "you've got the chances," the library quiet(er) and the use of the Student Activities Room, to posterity.

We, the Seniors, on this tenth day of June, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty, in the town of Longmeadow, County of Hampden, and the state of Massachusetts, do hereby solemnly affix our names.

CLASS OFFICERS
J. Childs, secretary; B. Edgerly, president; W. Sproul, vice-president; and C. Buchdahl, treasurer.

The election of class officers was first on the agenda for the Class of 1961. A new system was introduced whereby anyone desiring nomination for class office expressed his desire by submitting his name to Mr. Climo or Mrs. Pelczarski, the class advisors. After the preliminary voting, the class held a meeting at which each candidate gave a brief account of his qualifications. Wyman Howard was elected president; Brian Edgerly, vice-president; Joni Childs, secretary; and Claudia Buchdahl, treasurer. Because Wyman moved from Longmeadow, Brian became the president, and a new vote was taken electing Bill Sproul to the vice-presidency. The Junior Promenade, tastefully decorated according to a classical theme, was the most important project undertaken by the Class of '61. Elaine Giustina and Allan Low, co-chairmen of the dance, managed the affair very capably.

SOPHOMORES 1962

C. Cummings, treasurer; T. Paige, president;
B. Russell, vice-president; and C. Moyer, secretary.

The Class of 1962 began its sophomore year with the election of class officers. The results of the voting showed that Tim Paige had been elected president. Assisting as vice-president was Betsy Russell. The secretary, who kept a record of class events, was Cynthia Moyer, the treasurer, Carolyn Cummings.

Winter Whirl, the dance sponsored by the sophomore class, started the social season at Longmeadow High School this year. The success of this dance was due to the fine work of Roberta Goldberg, general chairman, and all the committees.

Class advisors perform an important function for any class, and the Class of 1962 is certainly fortunate to have two very capable ones, Mrs. Wanegar and Mr. Aldrich.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS
M. A. Astaldi, vice-president; M. Mudgett, secretary;
C. Carter, president; and B. Licht, treasurer.

To make the adjustment to high school somewhat easier for the freshmen, Miss Jensen, early in the fall, discussed with them good study habits. Soon afterwards, with the aid of the class advisors, Miss Baird and Mr. Joly, class officers were elected. Polling most votes for president was Charles Carter, and in second place, was Mary Alice Astaldi as vice-president. Meredith Mudgett was elected secretary and Barbara Licht was chosen to be treasurer. The Class of 1963 plans to complete their first year at LHS by sponsoring a spring dance.

MASACKSIC

The staff of the 1960 yearbook has undertaken a far greater task than many realize. Through the efforts of Steve Shatz and his staff, this year's Masacksic promises to be one of Longmeadow High School's finest.

Mr. Suher, Mrs. Pelczarski, and Miss Erickson, our advisors, were responsible for directing the Masacksic staff. Early in the year, the Business Department began soliciting advertisements, while the Patrons and Patronesses Department organized its work. These two groups, in addition to the Sales Staff which arranged for individual purchases, were responsible for the financial support of the yearbook. Perhaps the heaviest burden of all, the actual writing of the Masacksic, fell upon the shoulders of the Literary Staff. Credit for the layouts, designs, and the candid and group poses is due the capable Art and Photography Departments.

In October, a group of editors accompanied by Mr. Suher as guide and advisor, represented the LHS Masacksic at the annual Yearbook Convention, which was held at Columbia University. This was a novel and rewarding experience for those who participated in the convention program.

EXPERIMENT IN JOURNALISM

AIM: to turn a new and relatively inexperienced high school publication into a finished, professional newspaper.

APPARATUS: two resourceful editors, one diligent and imaginative staff, and four untiring advisors steeped in journalistic experience.

PROCEDURE: Begin by combining school news, world affairs, sports and humor in a mixture that appeals to everyone. Then add new features of contemporary interest such as the "Beat Bards," "Campus Corner," "The Blotter," and "Student of the Month." Finally, establish a definite pattern for the layout and printing of the paper.

OBSERVATIONS: Notice:

2. uncontrollable laughter or heated discussion in response to each article.

CONCLUSION: The net result is a well-rounded, polished journal in both form and content, representing the many ideas and attitudes of Longmeadow students.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The 1960 Student Council, under president "Mac" MacDonnell, planned an array of activities aimed at increasing its Scholarship Fund awarded annually to two deserving seniors. In the fall, printed programs and refreshments were sold at the football games and the Council continued to increase its profits throughout the year with the sale of monogrammed jackets, sweatshirts, and school bookcovers. Additional projects included: hall patrol and honor study hall, two student services, and student travel assemblies, a Halloween dance, and Playday, all for the enjoyment of the student body. The guidance of Mr. Shindler and Mr. Joly enabled the Student Council to have one of its most successful years.

The Longmeadow Chapter of the National Honor Society enjoyed one of its most active seasons this past year. At the first meeting, in September, the year's agenda was formulated and the following officers were elected: Elliot Bloom, president; Bob Summersgill, vice-president; Carol Beaver, secretary; and Paul Valliere, treasurer.

Soon afterwards, a coat-checking service, which developed into a profitable and efficient complement to many school functions, was resumed as a continuation of one of last year's projects. At the conclusion of the school year, the money earned in this manner will be presented as a scholarship to a deserving member of the senior class.

A very successful tutoring and paper-correcting program was continued again this year. Functioning in room thirty-two during activity periods, it proved a valuable aid to teachers and students.

The highlight of the year was the annual Tea, held during the Christmas season, for the Honor Society alumni, present members, and faculty. A precedent was established by the use of a guest register book.

For her invaluable guidance and able direction, Miss MacIntyre, group advisor, deserves the praise and congratulations of the 1959-1960 Honor Society and of Longmeadow High School.

DEBATING CLUB

"Vote yes on Plan A!"

The Debating Club presented an enlightening assembly at the start of the year concerning the controversial issues of the coming Springfield elections. Throughout the year, the club met to hold informal discussions and sometimes formal debates on other topics. The program was under the leadership of Bill Krim, president; Bob Summersgill, vice-president; and Judy Gold, secretary-treasurer. Although much credit must be given to Mrs. Harrison for the group's early success, thanks also goes to Mr. Joly who took over the position of advisor and has stimulated continued interest in the club throughout the year.

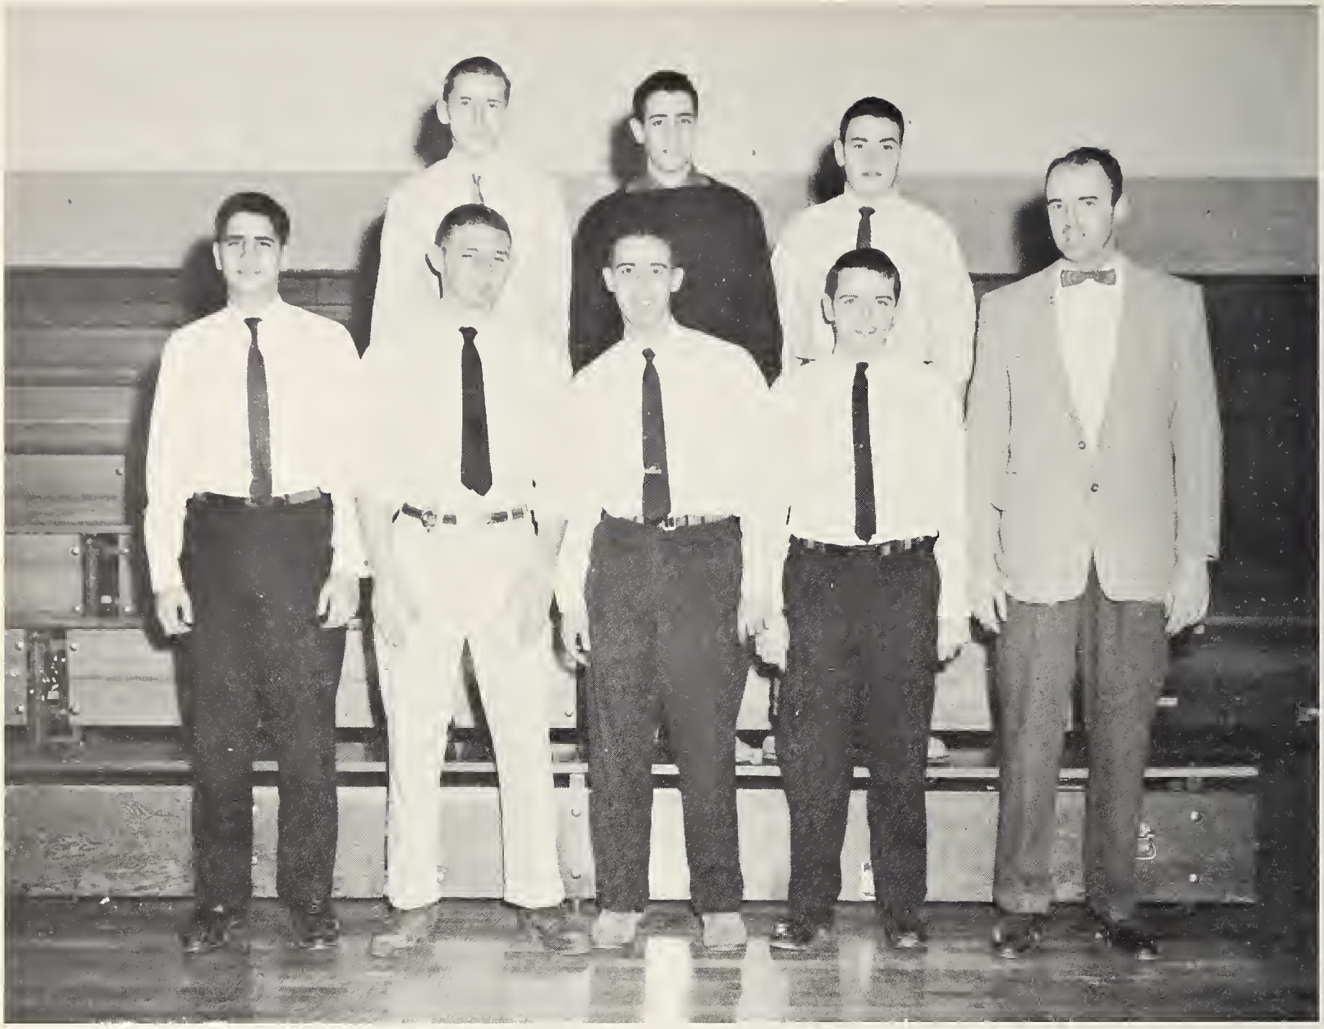
AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS CLUB

The Audio-Visual Aids Club at Longmeadow High School serves a dual purpose. The club performs services for the faculty and student body while helping students interested in learning the operation of motion picture projectors, tape recorders, and record players. This club is under the able guidance of Mr. Pratt.



First row: N. Cohn, C. Coen, E. Bloom, W. Donovan, Mr. Rossiter.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

Mr. Rossiter has organized the Photography Club into an important school service. This year Dave DuBuisson was elected president; Duncan Fordyce, vice-president and laboratory chief; and Elliot Bloom, treasurer. During the autumn, the Club aided the Athletic Department by filming all the home football games. Thus the coaches were able to improve the team by correcting past mistakes. Many of the Masacksic and Jet Jotter pictures have been taken and processed by the members of the Photography Club as another service to the school.

BUSINESS CLUB

The Business Club, composed of students who must be taking at least one business course, met early in the year to choose their officers: Carol Bultrucyk, president; Andy Morace, vice-president; Alice White, secretary; and Barbara Biondi, treasurer. Under the supervision of Mr. Dankevi ch, the group planned several trips to local offices and business establishments so that the students could have direct contact with office procedures. Many members of the Business Club have already applied their clerical skills by serving as Office Aides and by preparing typewritten material for the faculty.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT BANK

The Lancer Savings Bank began its fourth year of operation with an excellent start. Under the direction of Jackie Simonoff, the executive vice-president of the Longmeadow branch of the Junior Achievement Bank, the 15-24 Club was initiated. Students who banked for fifteen of the possible twenty-four weeks of banking received a premium, and became members of the 15-24 Club. The school advisor, Mrs. Howe, and the advisors from the Springfield Institution for Savings, Mr. Cross and Mrs. Geary, have aided the Lancer Bank in its attempt to open more new accounts than the other Junior Achievement Banks in this area. Another phase of business promotion was to encourage freshmen to use the Bank's services.

The Junior Achievement Bank, which serves both the student body and the faculty, has proved to be one of the school's notable organizations.

TRAFFIC SQUAD

Down the hall runs a fair young maiden,
With books and papers heavy laden.
'Round the corner sits a traffic squad man
Who'll attempt to detain her if he can.
"Let's see your pass," he says with glee,
She produces one unfortunately.

This year the Longmeadow High School Traffic Squad, headed by Bill Cox, has contributed to the school's orderly operation. A new responsibility of maintaining order in the lunchroom has been delegated to the squad this year and has met with excellent results.

JUNIOR RED CROSS CLUB

In 1959-1960, the Junior Red Cross Club experienced its most successful year since its organization in 1955. It began its season with a membership drive, enrolling sixty-five percent of the student body. The money collected during the drive was used for the many projects which the club undertook during the year. The members supervised a Christmas party at Monson State Hospital, provided decorations for a party at the Veterans Hospital in Leeds, and performed service work at Wesson Maternity Hospital and the South End Community Center.

The success of the club's program was due not only to its many members but also to its capable leaders: Mrs. Blakeborough, advisor; Bill Sproul, president; Erna Hoppe, vice-president; Nancy Stokes, treasurer; and Sandy Albano, secretary.

One of the first events of the new year at LHS was the organization of the Math Club. Plans for a successful and active program were formulated at its first meeting in February. The purpose of this club is to provide interested students an opportunity to discuss mathematical aspects and problems that are not covered in the classroom. Mr. Aldrich, advisor, is to be commended for the direction he has given to this club's establishment.

AIDES

The cafeteria aides undertake various jobs such as making change, cashiering, and serving teachers' lunches during the lunch period. After lunch it is their responsibility to total all the receipts. Sara Shaw, the student cafeteria manager, organizes this efficient group.

Assisting in the main office are the office aides. They do many time consuming tasks such as sorting mail, typing and filing reports, and operating the switchboard and mimeograph machines.

Miss Baird, our librarian, is aided by students who perform routine duties which are necessary to keep the library functioning properly. The assistants' principal jobs are to charge books, prepare new editions for circulation, and replace returned copies on the shelves.

THE FRENCH CLUB

"Le Cercle Français" of Longmeadow High School, now in its second year, held its first meeting in December and elected the following officers: Mike Mazer, president; Joan Mohrman, vice-president; Andrea Leers, secretary; and Liz Katten, treasurer. At the same meeting, it was decided that membership would be open to all students who were presently enrolled in French classes. Then, an interesting program was presented by Eline Dierauf concerning her recent European travels. Under the able direction of Mrs. Alonzo, "les bavardeurs" have planned an entertaining and educational year. Tentative plans include a "Mardi Gras," lectures, French movies and correspondence with French pen pals. Since all meetings are conducted in French, the students not only enjoy themselves, but they also acquire invaluable oral practice.

LATIN CLUB

The Latin Forum, one of the largest school organizations, whose membership is open to students of the second, third, and fourth year Latin classes, is also a very active club. Under the able direction of Paul Valliere, president; Carol Beaver, vice-president; Virginia Dondy, secretary, and Bill Craig, treasurer; and the capable supervision of Mrs. Leab, Mrs. Pelczarski, and Mrs. Wanegar, advisors, many projects were successfully undertaken. Among these was the presentation of the movie Julius Caesar which provided a cultural and historical background for the Latin courses. The Club also secured membership in the Junior Classical League, an organization which promotes cultural interest in Latin.

The Latin Auxilia, composed of only first year students, was started this year to accommodate the growing number of students interested in Latin. Sue Valliere was the president while Sally Lawrence became vice-president. The treasurer was Carolyn Snow, and the secretary, Sue Dale. This organization was sponsored by the same advisors and enjoyed a program similar to that of the Latin Forum. The ambitious endeavors of the members of these two groups certainly merit for them "maximam laudem."

Second Row: J. Proctor, P. Valliere, P. Clarke, J. Chandler, W. Harkless, J. Settle, Miss Eaton.

This year, a new activity, the Creative Writing Club, was formed by interested students. The purpose of the club is to stimulate an interest in creative writing among the students. More importantly, it offers an opportunity for student writers to have their works appraised and constructively criticized by others. There was such a large response during the first few meetings, that it was necessary to limit the membership. Active members were chosen from authors of submitted works and these students took part in all discussion meetings. Auditors were allowed to be present during meetings, but did not take part in the discussion.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA CLUB

First Row: J. MacLeod, J. Rudd, S. Dyson, C. Neef, A. McCullough, P. Andrews, D. Frisbie, T. McCormack. Second Row: Mr. Houle, J. Nitkowski, D. Durkin, B. Hernberg, C. Bisesti, P. Holmgren, P. Nettleton, J. Nettleton, K. Hardy.

After recommendation by the Student Council, The Future Teachers of America Club was organized under the able supervision of Mr. Houle. The purpose of this organization, as expressed in its charter, is to "develop an awareness of the privileges and responsibilities of the teaching profession." In order to acquaint the members with this career, a program of movies, lectures, and actual teaching observation was conducted. Leading the club were its officers: Cherry Neef, president; Ann McCullough, vice-president; Sandra Dyson, secretary; Patricia Andrews, treasurer; and Deborah Frisbie, librarian.

First Row: K. Stothert, C. Beaver, G. Dow, J. Alberti, J. Bloom, Mr. Lopes.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Prompted by the success of previous plays, the 1960 Dramatic Club set out once more to make its mark in the theatrical world with the presentation of Patterson Greene's Papa Is All. This story of a Pennsylvania Dutch mother, daughter, and son who rebel against a tyrannical father was well executed although the cast members were confronted with an added challenge — the mastery of dialect. The unusually small cast, consisting of Carol Beaver, Joan Bloom, Ginny Dow, Ed Epstein, Mike Mazer, and Bob Nye, was supplemented this year by a full understudy cast, an innovation which, Mr. Lopes felt, would offer good experience to future Thespians.

For this group, certainly, "All the world's a stage"!

First Row: D. Breglio, S. Bassett, E. Hoppe, D. Keith, M. Clark, J. Thompson, B. Zwirn, A. McCullough, T. McCormack, C. Hitz, S. Shaw. Second Row: S. Neef, L. Flint, J. Barreca, S. Sachs, P. CYCLORAMISTS

Brushes flying and imaginations hard at work, the Cycloramists again created the sets for the annual Dramatic Club presentation. Guided by Miss Erickson, the group designed the interior of the Aukamp home, the scene of Papa is All, and aided with such important preparations as make-up and costuming. In any theatrical production, the off-stage crew is as necessary to the success of the performance as is the cast, and the Longmeadow Cycloramists did create excellent effects to intensify the atmosphere of the play.

MUSIC

The music organizations of Longmeadow High School have indeed been fortunate to have Mr. Burkle as their instructor. Through his efforts the music groups this year not only have equaled last year's excellent quality but also have surpassed it. A very high percentage of students have participated in the high school's wide variety of musical organizations.

The Glee Club, a group representing grades ten through twelve, performed at the Christmas assembly, singing both traditional and novelty songs of the holiday season. Lyrics, a small choir consisting of thirty select students, performed at various gatherings in Longmeadow, the Christmas assembly, a meeting of the Junior Extension, and at other Longmeadow schools.

The Band and Orchestra are our two instrumental groups. The Band played at many of our home football and basketball games and contributed greatly to the students' spirit. The Band also provided marching music for all of the Drill Team performances. The Orchestra played for various assemblies and, with the above mentioned groups, participated in the Spring Concert and the Western Massachusetts Music Festival.

SCIENCE FAIR

Science students, engaging in the studies of physics, chemistry, and biology, displayed their initiative and creative abilities at the fourth annual Science Fair held in April of 1959. About 120 students participated with 80 projects on exhibit under the direction of Mr. Finklehoffe, faculty supervisor.

The board of judges, comprised of science instructors from Springfield schools and local colleges, and representatives of industry and business, selected Dave Taylor's and Bob Larson's project, "Fuel Injection System," as the first prize-winner. Ed Trachtenberg placed second with his project entitled, "Gibberellic Acid" and third prize was claimed by Dave Neef and Marcia Clark for their entry on "Oil Testing."

Many townspeople as well as students visited the science exhibit which proved the high caliber of independent work of which Longmeadow students are capable.

JUNIOR PROM

An evening in picturesque Holland, amidst colorful tulips and windmills will always remain in our fondest memories as we recall the 1959 Junior Class Prom, "Nether-Netherlands." Dick Murphy, general chairman, proved most capable in successfully co-ordinating the dance committees. From a court of king and queen candidates Bob MacDonnell and Sue Thomas were chosen to reign as King and Queen. The Junior Prom of 1959, certainly an enjoyable evening for all, will long be remembered.

PLAYDAY

"Attention! Attention, please! Today is Playday!" . . . When this welcome announcement came over the P.A. one undisclosed day last spring, the student body suddenly perked up and enthusiastically prepared for its yearly jaunt to Bliss Road Park.

Under the supervision of the Student Council and Leaders' Club, students and faculty enjoyed softball and volleyball games, relay and novelty races, tugs-of-war, and tennis matches. In last year's event, the Class of 1959, having accumulated the most points in the competition games, earned its place on the Playday Plaque. As these photographs indicate, everybody thoroughly enjoyed the change from the normal school routine.

FUNDAY

The Student Council initiated another "first" in 1959 when it sponsored a Funday, or student-faculty talent show. Mr. Suher was faculty director, and Bob Kittredge, Charlotte Carlson, Joan Mohrman, Peter Strople, and Brian Edgerly were the Student Council co-ordinators.

An original skit entitled "Save Our School," featuring Sue Lawsing, Dick Murphy, Amy Young, Bob Kittredge, and Paul Brouwer, opened the show. Next were performances by instrumental, vocal, and dance groups. Finally, the emcee, Bob MacDonnell, announced the faculty's presentations. After seeing the teachers perform in modern dance groups, Charleston numbers, a melodrama, and an "omnibus" of witticism, the student audience realized that many of their teachers had been keeping secret talents from them. One of the star attractions was a number by the McQueer Sisters (Mlles. Josselyn, Ursprung, D'Agostino, and Haskell). The Funday, providing many laughs for both the audience and participants as well as funds for the Student Council Scholarship, was entertaining and successful for all.

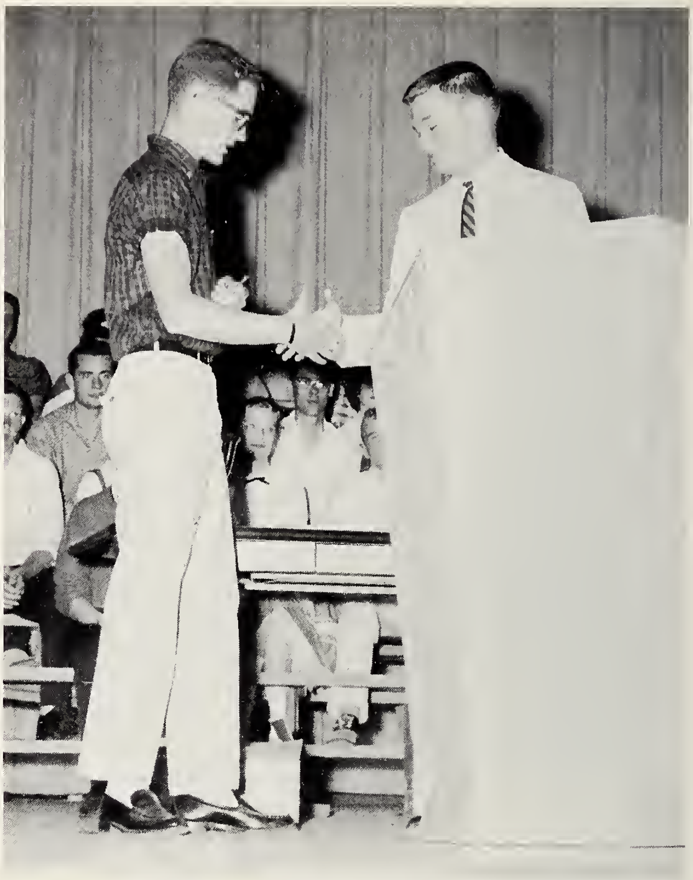
AWARDS ASSEMBLY

The final assembly, held during the last week of school, was a big event for all underclassmen. Presentations of annual awards recognized the notable achievements of the students. Now that the academic year had formally ended, the Class of 1960 found themselves the new leaders of the school.



Ed Mulkerin congratulates Bob MacDonnell, who will take over the leadership of our Student Council.

Joan Bloom learns that she has been chosen as governor's aide at the Eastern States Exposition.

Mr. Macfarlane presents Peter Strople with the Williams Book Award.

Ginny Dow is honored as Girls' State representative.

Bob Kittredge and Ed Mulkerin, recipients of the Coaches' Award, are very pleased as they are congratulated by Mr. Macfarlane.

Andrea Leers becomes co-editor of the Jet Jotter.

LATIN BANQUET

Who said Latin is dead?

The annual Cena Romana brought Latin back to life by following the customs and culture which accompany the language. The banquet familiarized the many guests, Latin students as well as faculty, with certain aspects of Roman life, since authentic methods and etiquette were observed as closely as possible.

Arrayed in appropriate Roman garb, the guests transformed the atmosphere of the cafeteria to the days of old Rome. As the patricians reclined on their couches, the banquet formally began. First year students costumed in the tunics of slaves, performed their designated tasks.

Musical selections, a dance by an Egyptian captive, and gladiatorial games completed the evening's festivities. This major project of the Latin Club proved to be a most satisfying and successful event.

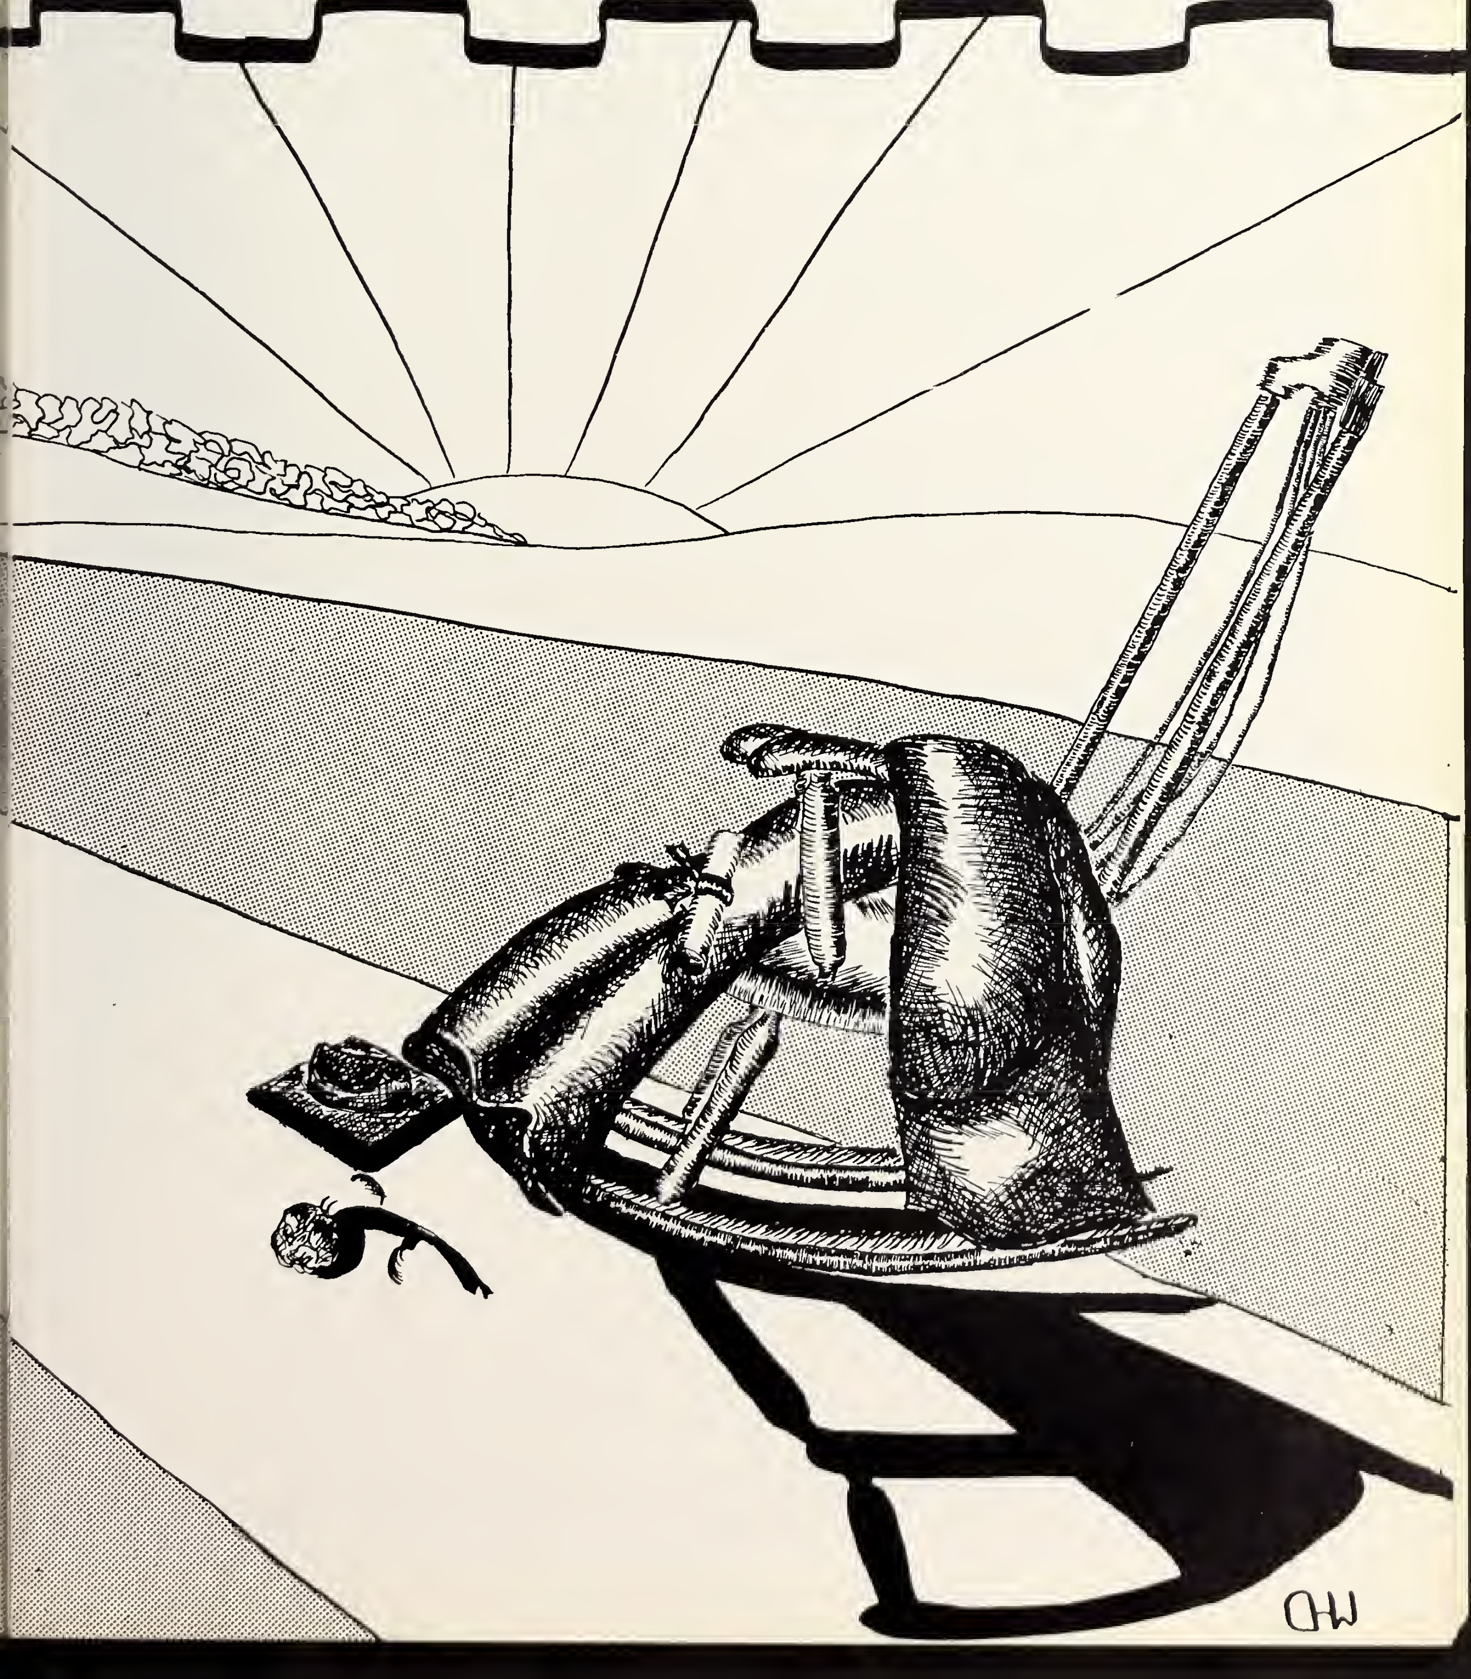
ends this eventful history



Senior Week

Senior week began last year with a banquet at Wiggins Tavern. Then, two days later, the seniors enjoyed their Prom with its striking Oriental theme. The next night, marshalled by Ginny Dow and Bob MacDonnell, the Class of 1959 graduated. Ed Mulkerin, class president, introduced the main speaker, Mr. Glenn Olds, president of Springfield College. His inspiring speech and the messages of Mr. Macfarlane and Mr. Herrschaft offered the graduates valuable guides for a life's philosophy.

As we, the Class of 1960, look over these pictures of last year's Senior Week, we realize, with mixed emotions, that we too will play the same parts.

BASEBALL

Once again, under the able coaching of Mr. D'Agostino, the Longmeadow High baseball team posted a winning record, 7-6. This was disappointing in view of the fact that the bulk of the previous year's undefeated nine had returned. However, the reason may have been the result of the scheduling of several new strong powers.

The Lancers started the season on the wrong foot, but down the stretch, they were unbeatable as they bowled over the top teams in the area. Wins over Ludlow, which finished the season 18-1, and arch-rival Classical, which was the runner-up in the Western Massachusetts Tournament, made the season far from dismal.

In post season selections, Longmeadow High placed three men on the Western Massachusetts Honorable Mention List. Versatile Glenn Snyder was picked for his hitting and pitching. Dick Zanolli received recognition for his slugging and fielding in the hot corner, while Alex Klutch was honored for his strong pitching.

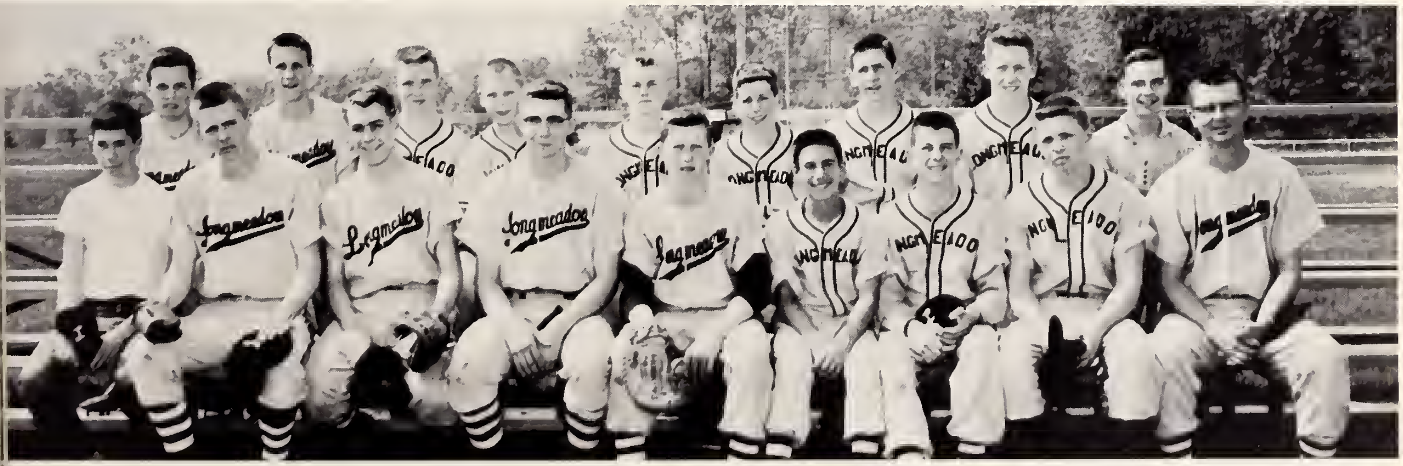
JUNIOR VARSITY BASEBALL

The Longmeadow J.V. baseball team, coached by Mr. Josselyn, ended the season with a record of eight victories and two losses. Pitchers Brian Edgerly and Jeff Hopkins led the team to its winning season. This year the varsity can expect to see some of the J.V.'s, who gained valuable experience last year, being promoted to the higher ranks.



First Row: H. Heafitz, B. Bateman, R. Taylor, D. Richter, B. Edgerly, K. Lang, L. Westcott, P. Clarke, Mr. Josselyn.

In the first game of the season Commerce High overcame a 5-1 deficit in the bottom of the ninth inning to score five unearned runs and to stun the Lancers 6-5. It was a heartbreaker for starter and loser Dick Murphy who held Commerce hitless through the first six innings and who ended the game, his first varsity start, with seventeen strikeouts.

Jack Johnston's triple and Neddy Cummings' single gave Longmeadow a short-lived 1-0 lead before Classical broke through in the bottom of the seventh inning, due to a comedy of errors, and gained a 6-1 lead. The Lancers threatened in the top of the ninth but some fine fielding by Classical helped to quell the rally. Glenn Snyder, who weakened in the late innings, pitched hitless ball through the first five and two-thirds innings.

A lack of defense on Longmeadow's part let South Hadley remain in contention until Longmeadow produced a run on clutch hits by Phil Stone and Ed Mulkerin in the tenth inning to win 8-7. Alex Klutch made his first appearance on the mound and turned in an excellent relief job for starter Dick Murphy, who struck out thirteen men before retiring in the seventh inning.

Enfield's best pitcher proved too much for the Lancers as they could only scatter four hits off him and went down to their third defeat of the season, 5-3.

A three run rally, featured by Al Stewart's two-run single, was not enough to beat the Ludlow Lions as the Lancers lost 5-3.

The Lancers, playing their first home game of the season, thumped Springfield Trade 15-0. Alex Klutch administered the whitewash as he permitted only one scratch hit of the infield variety, did not walk a single batter, and struck out the amazing number of seventeen opponents. The fifteen hit attack was led by Dick Zanolli.

Glenn Snyder, who also pitched the win, with four hits and Dick Zanolli and Doc Cort with three each, led a heavy hitting Longmeadow team to a fourteen hit attack as it rapped Holyoke Catholic 13-7.

Alex Klutch, who pitched the winner, knocked home the winning run with a sacrifice fly as Longmeadow bested Ludlow High, which sported a 16-0 record at game time, by the score of 2-1. Clutch hitting by Doc Cort, Neddy Cummings, Jack Johnson, and Glenn Snyder helped in the victory.

On May 16, Alex Klutch, again on the mound, was sported a one run lead in the first inning and proceeded to baffle Longmeadow's arch-rival, the Classical Bulldogs, 1-0 on just three scattered hits. Glenn Snyder scored the lone run as he reached base via a single and came home on Neddy Cummings' hit that followed.

Dick Murphy pitched a four-hitter while the other Lancers supported him with good hitting and high scoring as they walloped Trade 16-2. Dick Zanolli led the team, reaching base six times on three hits and three walks.

In a game played during poor conditions because rain fell intermittently throughout the contest, the Lancers were edged in the tenth inning by the Technical High Tigers, 4-3. Dick Murphy absorbed the loss as the Tigers pushed across their winning run on an error and three bases on balls.

A home run by the Tech pitcher accounted for the final two runs as Technical once again bested Longmeadow by a score of 7-5. Standout performance for the Lancers was the pitching of loser Alex Klutch who struck out fourteen men in the seven innings that he hurled.

The Lancers ended their season with a solid victory over Commerce by a score of 13-2. Pitcher Glenn Snyder went the distance for the Longmeadow win.

Although the 1959 Lancer track team had only one win, this record does not indicate some of the fine performances of individual members. The outstanding man on the squad was Bob Kittredge, an almost consistent winner in the 220-yard dash and the 120-yard low hurdles. Other high point men were Jim Lawsing, Ken Clark, Bill Cox, and Bruce Aldrich.

The first meet of the year was against Amherst. Although the Lancer cindermen lost 63 to 45, they fought hard and well. The outstanding performances of the day were by Bob Kittredge in the 220- and 180-yard hurdles, Bill Cox in the 100-yard dash and discus throw, Jim Lawsing in the pole vault and broad jump, and Dave Richter in the 440-yard dash.

The next competition, a tri-meet, was held with Agawam and Enfield. Due to their spirited action, Longmeadow captured second place by a few points. Again, Dave Richter, Jim Lawsing, Bill Cox, and Bob Kittredge earned first places.

For the third encounter of the season, Longmeadow met a powerful squad from Cathedral. The Lancers swept the 180-hurdles and 220-yard dash, but this lead was gradually narrowed as Cathedral pulled ahead to a final score of 77 to 31. The deciding factors in their win were a sweep in the broad jump and near sweeps in the seven other events.

In the next contest, the Lancer team, unlimited by the number of events individuals could enter, beat East Windsor 80⅔ to 32⅓. This was their first victory of the season. Starring for Longmeadow were Mike Mazer, Bob Kittredge, Ken Clark, Jim Lawsing, and Dave Richter.

For the next meet, Longmeadow hosted West Springfield and Agawam. Charlie Hollister was outstanding for Longmeadow in the discus contest.

On their home field for the final event, Longmeadow competed against Classical and Enfield. The Lancers, placing second in this meet, successfully ended the track season.

FOOTBALL

For the second straight grid season, the Longmeadow High School Lancers presented the school and the coaches, Mr. Ursprung and Mr. D'Agostino, with a winning record. This year the team was led by Denny Robb and Bob MacDonnell, co-captains.

LONGMEADOW 8 COMMERCE 6

In the first game of the season, Longmeadow edged the Red Raiders of Commerce, 8-6. Commerce capitalized on Longo miscues to score early in the first period. The try for conversion failed. Will Craft and Dick Murphy moved the ball up to our 46-yard line where QB MacDonnell flipped a perfect screen pass to Stewart who took it over the shoulder and scampered 54 yards to the one yard line of Commerce. On the next play from scrimmage, full-back Denny Robb powered his way through the line for the T.D. Stewart carried over for the final two points of the afternoon and the margin of victory.

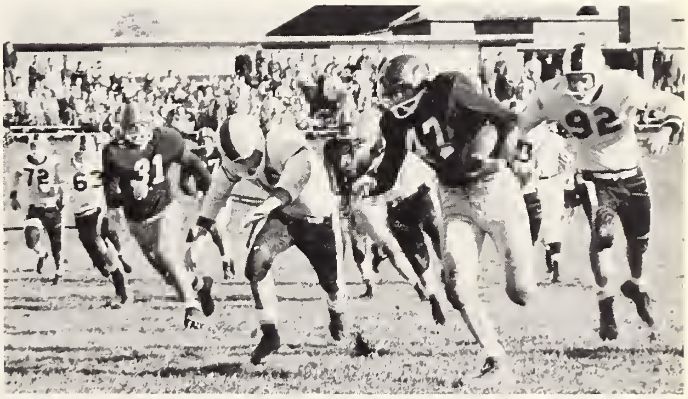
Asst. Coach D'Agostino, Co-captains D. Robb and R. MacDonnell, Head Coach Ursprung.

LONGMEADOW 28 LEE 8

Led by hard-hitting Al Stewart, Longmeadow scored three quick touchdowns and then coasted to an easy victory over Lee High. Longmeadow received the kick-off and marched downfield, hitting paydirt on a Bob MacDonnell to Al Stewart pass. A pass interception by Doc Cort set up the next Longo T.D. as Stewart bulled his way up the middle from about the fifteen yard line. To add to the thrills, Dale Richter intercepted a pitchout in Lee's backfield and sped forty yards to a touchdown. Snyder and Robb added the conversions and Longmeadow enjoyed a comfortable 22-0 yead at the end of the first half. Bob MacDonnell scored the final touchdown in the fourth period, sweeping around the end for ten yards.

LONGMEADOW 8 LUDLOW 28

On October 10, a powerful Ludlow team caught fire and recorded a come-from-behind victory. The heavily favored Ludlow Lions had many anxious moments before checking the Longmeadow defense for its scores. The Lancer eleven outplayed them during the first half, keeping the ball deep in Ludlow territory, scoring once, and threatening on several other occasions. Longo took the lead early in the second quarter as flanker Snyder swept around the end for seven yards and six points. Al Stewart, who played brilliantly, averaging about eight yards per carry, followed for the conversion. Ludlow made the lead short-lived as they broke through for all their points during the second half.



LONGMEADOW 8 ENFIELD 6

A hard-hitting Longmeadow line led by Al Robson, Jim Duval, and line backer Tim Purdy blocked and tackled Longmeadow to an 8-6 thriller over powerful Enfield High. The previously undefeated and three-touchdown favorite, Green Raiders, expected an easy afternoon. What they didn't count on, however, was an underweighted but spirited Lancer forward wall. The Raiders drew first blood, scoring early in the third period. But the Lancers took the kick and Al Stewart drove downfield picking up good yardage. Stewart finally blasted over from about the three. MacDonnell carried the ball on a quarterback sneak for the conversion and what proved to be the margin of victory. In the last ninety seconds, the Nutmeggers had seven stabs at the goal line from within the Longo 4-yard line.

LONGMEADOW 20 CLASSICAL 24

On a beautiful Indian summer day, a capacity crowd of over 2,000 spirited fans watched the most exciting game of the year as the Longmeadow Lancers were edged by their arch-rival, the Classical Bulldogs, 24-20.

Classical pulled away 16-0, but the Lancers took hold and fought back to close the margin. Stewart carried over from about the 3-yard line, but the all-important extra point try by Taylor failed as he fumbled. With less than a minute left in the first half and with the Lancers on the 45-yard line of Classical, quarterback Bob MacDonnell and flanker Glenn Snyder combined for the play of the year. "Mac" rolled far to his right, emerged from a flock of would-be Classical tacklers and flipped a beautiful roll-out pass to Glenn, who had outraced the secondary. Snyder took the ball over the shoulder in perfect stride and walked over for the score. The Lancers found themselves on the short end of a 16-12 score at halftime.

The fired-up Lancers then took the second half kick-off and drove seventy yards for their third touchdown with Bob MacDonnell going over from the 10-yard line on a quarterback sneak. With minutes remaining, Classical pulled a long shot and won a run good for sixty-five yards to the 2-yard line of Longmeadow. They scored on the next series of downs. The game ended with a final Lancer drive, stalled on Classical's 10-yard line. The backfield was sparked by Al Stewart and Bob MacDonnell; in the line, Barry Kittredge, Jim Duval, and Andy Morace gave outstanding performances.

The 1959 soccer season was highlighted by many outstanding games, among which were victories over rival Classical, Tech, Monson, and West Springfield. Although the Longos suffered only three defeats in Western Massachusetts competition, two of these were in Pioneer Valley Soccer League contests to defending champion Ludlow. Two more of the team's total of five losses were to Suffield, its Connecticut division champion.

In its league, Longmeadow virtually trounced every team but the champion Ludlow, to whom the Longos lost 1-0 and 2-1. In the first match, Ludlow triumphed on a fluke goal that dribbled off one of Longmeadow's own defenders. In the second, a thriller to the last second, the Lancers, who had been leading by one goal up to the last minute and a half, lost their chance for the championship. Two goals, one a freak penalty shot and the other a shot off a Longmeadow player, won the game for Ludlow after a tremendous fight by both teams.

A revenge game against Tech, who had previously whipped the Longos 5-0, provided another special for the 1959 season. Longmeadow used its latent scorer, John Mayock, to sink two goals in a 2-1 victory. Counting earlier wins over Trade and Commerce, Longmeadow had beaten almost as many city teams as had the champion, Classical.

The most spectacular game of the season was a one goal victory over Classical, Springfield's City Champions. Led by goalie Mike Palmer, the Longmeadow defense kept Classical at bay, until the superb offense finally hustled its way to the winning goal, scored by Ned Cummings in the last ten seconds of a double overtime period. The victory served as a fitting conclusion to the season for a group of well deserving seniors: Charlie Clark, Ricky Kimball, Mike Mazer, Ed Flagler, Mike Palmer, and Skip Baird, and especially for the winning coach, Mr. Suher. Although Longmeadow had not been chosen for the Western Massachusetts Championship, it showed that it had enough ability to beat a participating member, Classical.

Outstanding in making Longmeadow's overall record of ten wins, five losses, and one tie were Pioneer Valley All-Stars Brian Edgerly, Dave Purrington, Mike Palmer, Skip Baird, and Phil Collins. Edgerly and Purrington were also selected for All-Western Massachusetts Honors, while Brian received the greatest recognition, being chosen as the outstanding player in this area.

Although the Lancers will miss the depth provided by the graduating seniors, the next year's team seems even more potent than this year's victorious clan. With the majority of this year's starters returning, the Longos appear to be the choice to cop the next Pioneer Valley League Championship, and perhaps even the Championship of Western Massachusetts.

The 1959-1960 Lancer cage team, aided by Coach Haskell, surpassed the exceptional records of the past three years with a sparkling 13-1 card. Using their patented fast break, the Lancers outscored their opponents 873 to 642, an average of 62.4 to 45.8 a game.

The Lancers were led by 5′11″ freshman Jimmy Walling who finished the regular season with 300 points and an impressive average of 21 points a game. Walling, who seemed to get better as the season progressed, used an assortment of drives, a fading jump shot, a colorful hook, and accurate foul shooting to stimy the opposition. Glenn Snyder wrapped up his fourth varsity year as the team's second highest scorer with 230 points, or 15 per game. Considering all the skills of basketball — shooting, passing, dribbling, rebounding, and playing defense — the most valuable player and unsung hero of the Lancers was 6′1″ junior Ned Cummings. Countless times Ned passed off to teammates Walling and Snyder, enabling them to sink a bushel of points. Longmeadow's center, Dale Richter, a springy 6′3″ junior, and Dick Murphy, a 6′1″ senior, who both averaged seven points a game, rounded out the starting five. Longmeadow's sixth man, Will Craft at 6′2½″ rotated effectively at center and forward. No good team is complete without a strong bench. Seniors Tom Astaldi, Bob MacDonnell, and Ed Flagler, and underclassmen Gary Gibson, and Al Stewart assisted ably.

The return of three starters, a good bench, and another fine J.V. team from which to draw — all point to another great team next year.

Under the able coaching of Mr. Josselyn, the J.V. basketball team completed the season with an impressive eleven win, five loss record. Jeff Hopkins, John Harten, Jim Poole, Peter Brand, Tom Clarke, and Paul DelVecchio were the top rebounders and scorers. The all-sophomore J.V. team gained experience this year that will prove valuable in future seasons.

The freshman team, coached by Mr. Suher, ended the basketball season with a three win and nine loss record. Bob Cohen, Dee Hartford, and Steve Parker were the outstanding performers of the team. With a little more height and experience, this group promises to have a winning J.V. record.

In the opening contest of the season, the Lancers captured a first quarter lead of 17-0 and then coasted to an easy 56-29 victory over Enfield High. Jimmy Walling led the balanced attack with eighteen points.

In their next encounter, the Lancers tallied a needed twenty points in the fourth quarter to defeat a strong Ludlow team, 56-48. Walling, with 21, and Snyder, with 15, starred for LHS.

Sparked by a 31 point final quarter and the 27 point performance of Jimmy Walling, Longmeadow handed Palmer High a 69-49 defeat. Clutch shooting by Snyder, Walling, and Murphy helped to turn what was a close tilt into a rout.

After an unsteady first quarter, Longmeadow took hold and then rolled to another easy victory, 54-35, over Commerce High.

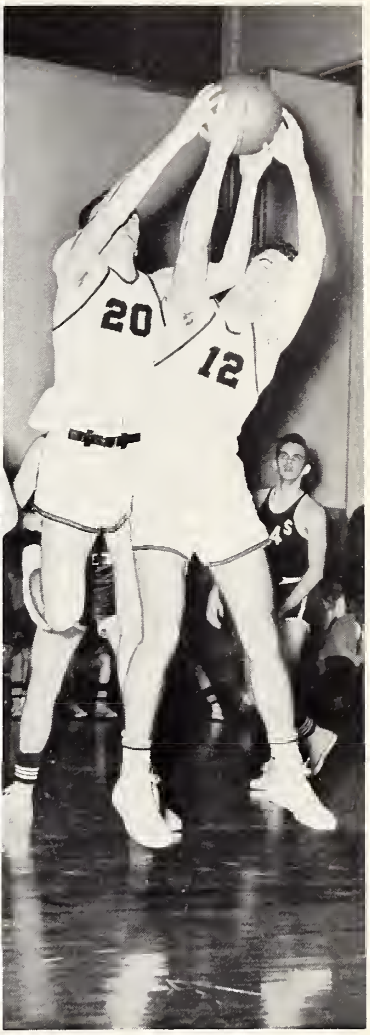
After a break for vacation, the Lancers traveled to Somers where they romped to an 82-43 victory. Forward Jimmy Walling set a new school record as he bombed 33 points in a brilliant shooting exhibition.

The next victim, Stafford Springs, succumbed easily to the Lancers, 75-47.

Although they were unbelievably cold, the Longmeadow team used some pinpoint shooting from the charity line to stay within reach and finally won a thriller from our arch-rival, Classical, 43-41. Junior Dale Richter was an invaluable aid under the boards and Cummings and Snyder led the scorers.

Once again, the Longos charged to a large half-time lead and then coasted to a 66-40 win over Enfield. Walling and Snyder paced the offense with 24 and 14 points, respectively.

A red-hot first quarter gave the Red Raiders of Commerce, eager for an upset, a short-lived advantage before they succumbed to the Lancers, 64-41. Will Craft and Dale Richter dominated the boards as our scoring twins, Walling and Snyder, contributed a total of 42 markers.



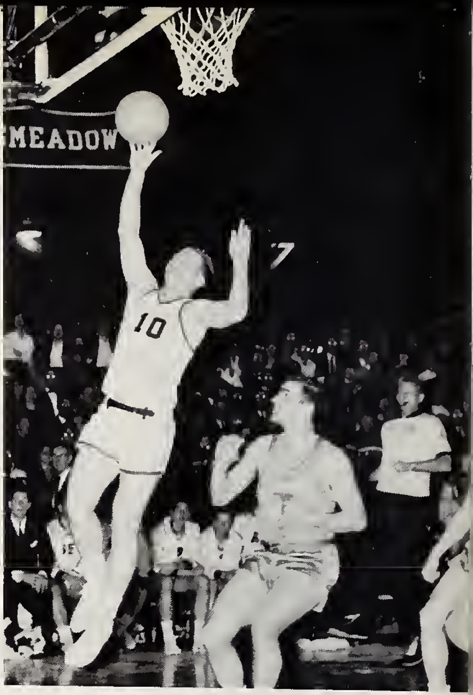
LHS seized a large first quarter margin of 27-6 over Somers and then rolled home for their tenth straight win, 73-41. Good team work and fine passing helped Walling and Snyder lead the attack with 23 and 18 points.

At the Springfield College Field House, determined Classical used its own radar to spoil Longmeadow's victory streak. A crowd of 2,000 saw the Lancers lead for most of the first half and then throw up an assortment of defenses, none of which came close to containing the Classical team. The Bulldogs, who started hot and stayed hot through 32 minutes of basketball, bombed away for a terrific percentage from the floor to shatter the Lancers 69-54.

The Lancers hopped back onto the victory wagon as they beat Easthampton High, 51-41. The rebounding of Richter and the clutch shooting of Dick Murphy helped to turn what was a close game into an easy win.

Jimmy Walling's hook shot with one second left was enough to give the Lancers a well-earned win over the Ludlow Lions, 65-63. Walling, who stole the show, drove hard and used accurate foul shooting to stretch the twines for 32 markers. Snyder, who scored 14 points, and Richter and Craft, who cleared the boards, aided the team in its win.

Longmeadow ended its regular season with a 68-58 victory over Easthampton. Longmeadow was never in trouble after the first quarter and led by four baskets at intermission. Fabulous Jimmy Walling once again sparked the Longos with 30 points. However, game honors went to Easthampton's center, who sank an unbelievable 21 out of 22 charity tosses to prevent the game from being a rout. Richter and Snyder, each with 12 points, followed up the Lancer attack.



SMALL SCHOOL TOURNAMENT

For the third consecutive year, Longmeadow has had the honor of being invited to the Western Massachusetts Small School Tournament; and for the second year, the Lancers were edged in a low scoring finale. Longmeadow's first victim, Saint Joseph's, succumbed easily to a fourth quarter onslaught when the Lancers threw in 26 points to record an easy 56-41 victory. On the second night, Jimmy Walling's 30 points sparked an overall team effort as the Lancers used a 40 point second half to roll over strong Saint Mary's, 67-50.

This victory earned the pre-tournament favorite Lancers the right to oppose Amherst Regional in the finals. The Hurricanes pulled one of the year's biggest upsets as they shocked Longmeadow 46-39. Although the Lancers lost in the finals, they deserve much credit for the fine show of basketball skill and sportsmanship that was displayed throughout all three games.

HOCKEY

The Longmeadow High 1959-1960 hockey team failed to retain its Suburban League crown, bowing out only by a slim one point margin on the last day of the season to a strong Chicopee High six. Leading the Lancers to their excellent 11-3-2 record were junior co-captains Phil Collins and Brian Edgerly. Seniors Bill Toner, Skip Baird, Jim Tufts, Jay Wiley, and Bob Summersgill also aided Longmeadow's hockey squad to compile its impressive record. Individual performances by Skip Baird and Brian Edgerly, who ran second and third with 31 and 29 points, respectively, in the league scoring race, kept the Lancer puckmen on top for most of the season.

In post season selections, Brian and Skippy were both awarded front-line positions on the Suburban All-Star Team. Defenseman Dave Purrington earned a place on the second string of the All-Stars. With a return of five of the six starters and a strong bench for support, Coach Ness looks forward to an even brighter season next year.

The Lancer puckmen started the season off with an impressive 3-1 victory over Holyoke. Hustling Brian Edgerly led the attack with two goals and Peter Clarke chipped in with the third. In their second game, the Lancers scored three quick goals and then starved off Chicopee for a 3-2 victory. Once again, Edgerly and Clarke contributed the goals. A poor Agawam team surprised the Longos in their next encounter by holding them to a 2-2 tie. This tie eventually cost the Lancers a state tournament berth and the league championship. Having recuperated, Longmeadow crushed an undermanned Westfield team, 9-2. This game was highlighted by Skip Baird's four goals. The Lancers sustained their first loss of the season at the hands of a hustling Holyoke team, 6-3. The Lancers recovered in the next tilt, however, to skate away with another squeaker over Chicopee, 4-3. The next two games were written off as LHS wins as the Lancer puckmen recorded impressive victories, defeating Agawam and Westfield respectively 5-1 and 6-1.

Longmeadow's dreams of the championship were shattered on successive Wednesdays as both Holyoke and Chicopee administered convincing setbacks to the Lancers, 4-1 and 6-1. Longmeadow took hold in their next game and were never headed as they crushed Agawam, 9-1. This tremendous offensive display featured a "hat-trick" by Skip Baird. Holyoke High succumbed to the Jet and White, 4-3, in a game highlighted by hard checking and aggressive play. The Lancers finished the season strong as they battled Chicopee High to a tense 3-3 tie and then rolled over Agawam and Westfield 6-1 and 7-1.

The 1959-1960 Drill Team, led by captain Barbara Chapin and co-captain Sally Wagner, is congratulated for the unique performances which they have given at the home football and basketball games. This year, the Drill Team was honored for its outstanding exhibitions by being invited to march at Springfield College before a group of instructors from various Springfield schools which were contemplating the formation of their own drill teams. The girls were also asked to perform on television in a preview of its Small School Basketball Tournament halftime show. The Drill Team and its coach, Miss Kelsey, well deserve these honors for all the many hours which they spend in perfecting their spirited drills.

The 1959-1960 Boys and Girls Leaders' Club has worked to fulfill its obligation to the school by assisting during physical education classes and after-school activities.

The second annual Sock Hop, held in November, was one of the most successful events of the year. The trampoline and the volleyball and the badminton courts attracted many students and teachers to the old gym. Meanwhile, there was dancing to records in the new gym. This Sock Hop provided the money necessary to finance activities during the year.

The training received by the members of Leaders' Club, under the able supervision of Miss Kelsey and Mr. D'Agostino, will be of great value to all concerned. Much credit goes to these student leaders and faculty advisors for the time and effort they have devoted to make the entire sports' program a success.

★ Printing ★

Our work at Walter Whittum, Inc. is putting ink on various surfaces according to your requirements. Whatever your need — a simple label or a complicated four-color many-paged brochure — we take pride in giving you the job you want. Artwork, typography, photography and plate-making are all things we do for your OK prior to actual printing by the most suitable process. Our modern, efficient equipment can help you with any graphic arts problem, and we will use skill, speed, imagination, economy, ingenuity and precision in whichever order you wish. A photographic studio for color pictures of people and products, for separations, and new plate-making equipment make our fine color printing more economical than ever.

INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS
A Mutual Savings Bank

"Bank Day" at the Lancer Savings Bank, a Junior Achievement Company, provides the opportunity for Longmeadow High School students to save ahead for the things they need and want.

But the need for saving does not end with graduation. How you handle your money will play an important part in your happiness, for if you spend unwisely, you will find your money gone and your real goals still unattained.

Make this important decision now — that you will save regularly. Lancer bank books may always be used at any S.I.S. office, or we will be glad to open a new book if you have none.
